BIOGRAPHY

Klas International puts you in touch with trusted partners for high quality services for all of your professional and personal needs.

Former professional rugby players, Peter Scrivener and Kenny Logan, recognised the importance of having reliable partners at your fingertips to provide business and personal solutions. They started Klas International to extend their strong network of contacts to individuals and businesses, which they created during their rugby and business careers, to provide a 'wrap around' service.

From accountancy to insurance, recruitment to foreign exchange, our wide range of partners should be able to find a solution to any service you need. Partners and referral companies are chosen for their expertise, service levels, attention to detail and reputation in their chosen fields. With contacts at owner, Board or CEO level, you can get a trusted second opinion to help improve service and give you a competitive advantage in the shared-ownership industry.
